

DOL's proposed changes to Joint Employer status Sexual harassment claims are on the rise Drug testing and the ADA Beware: penalties are on the rise!

Joint Employer Status Under the FLSA April 9, 2019 → DOL issues Proposed Rulemaking to update & clarify the DOL's interpretation of "joint employer" status under the FLSA • DOL has not significantly revised the regulation (Part 791 of Title 29, CFR) in over 60 years (1958) • Intended to promote certainty for employers and employees, reduce litigation, create greater uniformity among the courts, and encourage innovation in the economy *Comments due June 10, 2019

Joint Employer Status Under the FLSA The FLSA allows joint employer liability when both parties are jointly responsible for the employee's wages. A staffing company and its client must understand their responsibilities to pay at least minimum wage for all hours worked $\underline{\text{and}}$ overtime for all hours worked over 40 in a workweek. Joint Employer Status Under the FLSA The DOL is proposing a four-factor test to assess whether the potential joint employer actually exercises the power to: 1. Hire or fire the employee; 2. Supervise and control the employee's work schedule or conditions of employment; 3. Determine the employee's rate and method of payment; and 4. Maintain the employee's employment records. Joint Employer Status Under the FLSA The Take-Away? Actions speak louder than words. DOL's position is that "a person's ability, power or contractual right to act ... would not be relevant to that person's joint employer status under the FLSA." "Only actions taken with respect to the employee's terms and conditions of employment, rather than theoretical ability to do so under a contract, are relevant."

Joint Employer Status Under the FLSA Guiding principles: Business practices such as being a franchisee, providing a sample employee handbook, offering or participating in an associated health plan, or jointly participating in an apprenticeship program do not result in joint employer liability. 2. Only where the company enforces or otherwise takes action "in relation to" the employee does it impute liability. 3. Has the potential joint employer taken "sufficient action" to be held jointly and severally liable under the Act? Remember – actions speak louder than words! Joint Employer Status DOL's Examples The DOL has provided examples in its proposed rulemaking which are very helpful. https://www.dol.gov/whd/flsa/jointemployment2019/joint-employment_factsheet.pdf EEOC Sexual Harassment Suits are on the Rise

Sexual Harassment Suits on the Rise • In 2018, 41 out of the 66 workplace harassment lawsuits filed by the EEOC in 2018 alleged sexual harassment. - This means there was a $\underline{\bf 50\%}$ increase in suits challenging sexual harassment over FY 2017. In 2018, the EEOC recovered \$56.6 million with respect to sexual harassment cases only. This is an increase of more than \$10 million from FY 2017. The filing of sexual harassment charges increased by 13.6% from FY 2017 to FY 2018.

Sexual Harassment	&	Confidentiality	/ A	greements

As part of the #metoo movement there has been support for raising awareness and promoting transparency

One priority has been to curb confidentiality of harassment claims

Legal Update – Virginia

- Effective July 1, 2019
- New law prohibits employers from requiring an employee or a prospective employee to execute or renew any provision in a nondisclosure or confidentiality agreement that has the purpose or effect of concealing the details related to a claim of sexual assault as a condition of employment. Any such provision will be against public policy and is void and unenforceable.

EEOC v. Premier Employees Solutions, LLC

- In 2018, the EEOC sued Premier Employee Solutions LLC, a North Carolina staffing company.
- The key facts and allegations:
 - Female employee was subjected to a sexually hostile work environment.
- The employee began working for Premier in January 2016, and she was assigned as a temporary employee at the Del Monte Fresh Produce, N.A., Inc. facility in Whitsett, N.A., Inc. facility in Whit
- The EEOC alleged that from February to April 2016, a male line lead employed by Premier subjected the employee to sexual harassment on a daily or near daily basis including comments, sexual gestures, and physical touching (such as grabbing the employee's breasts).
- The employee complained to Premier about the sexual harassment, but the harassment continued.
- . The result? Premier paid $34,000 in early 2019 to settle the lawsuit

PECOC v. Select Staffing In 2018, the EEOC sued Select Staffing in the U.S. District Court for the District of New Mexico. The key facts and allegations: Select Staffing allowed its female employees to be subjected to sexual harassment when they were placed at the Inspection of Public Records Act Unit of the Albuquerque Police Department. The employees were subjected to pervasive unwelcome sexual comments, including comments about their breasts and buttocks, being referred to as "prostitutes" and "sluts," and being subjected to unwelcome touching. The EEOC also charged that, despite complaints, Select Staffing did nothing about the sexual harassment of its employees. The case is ongoing.

Establish a reporting process for temporary employees to submit complaints (this should be included in your policy and handbook) Ensure that all complaints are immediately relayed to human resources and immediately investigated Take all complaints seriously, and thoroughly and quickly investigate Don't take any action that could be interpreted as retaliating against the person making the complaint Take all necessary actions to immediately stop the harassment or correct past harassment. If appropriate, discipline the person who committed the harassment. If disciplinary action is not deemed appropriate, specifically document the reasons why. Educate and train your client's management team and HR department Document, document, document.

Lessons Learned from Recent Cases

Sexual harassment can occur outside of the regular workplace or regular working hours, e.g., email, client events, company events, business trips. Sexual harassment claims can arise from the conduct of supervisors, co-workers, customers, contractors, or anyone else with whom the employee interacts on the job. Generally, the intent of the harasser is irrelevant. "I didn't mean anything by it" or "other people thought it was funny" or "she is a snowflake" are NOT valid defenses.

Applicant Screening & Drug Testing EEOC v. Randstad (lawsuit filed Nov. 3, 2015) EEOC sued a temporary labor agency alleging that it violated federal law (ADA) when it refused to hire April Cox because she volunteered that she was in a medically supervised methadone treatment clinic. Prior to taking drug test the applicant volunteered this information and the site manager replied "I'm sure we don't hire people on methadone but I will contact my supervisor" Cox continued to call the Randstad office and told the site manager that she didn't have any medical restrictions to prevent her from performing the job duties. Cox never was asked to take a drug test (even though she produced information from the clinic that she was OK to work except as a truck driver or airline pilot) Cox was never hired because of her Methadone use.

Applicant Screening & Drug Testing EEOC v. Randstad (February 8, 2016) In the lawsuit, EEOC argued the following: Cox was disabled because she was recovering from substance abuse; · Cox had a record of a disability; and Cox was "regarded as" having a disability based on her methadone use. Applicant Screening & Drug Testing EEOC v. Randstad On Feb. 8, 2016 Randstad agreed to settle the case for $50,000 In addition to money, Randstad is required to advise all employees involved in recruitment/screenings that applicants are not to be rejected because of a lawful prescribed medication (including Methadone) and is required to provide training on the ADA and its protections regarding use of prescription medications EEOC District Director stated "medically prescribed Methadone is a well-known and effective treatment for recovering from drug addiction" and is protected under the ADA Applicant Screening & Drug Testing EEOC's position on drug screening (ADA): • 5 Panel drug test for illegal drugs can be given at the pre-offer stage in hiring process 10 Panel drug test that includes testing for legal substances is a "medical inquiry" or medical exam under the ADA, and cannot be given until the post-offer stage (after a conditional job offer has been

Applicant Screening & Criminal Convictions EEOC has increased its scrutiny of employer's use of criminal background reports in the hiring process (see EEOC's strategic enforcement plan) Legal Update - South Carolina Legal Update – South Carolina SC law permits person to expunge a first-offense, low-level crime carrying a sentence of 30 days or less from their record following a period of good behavior. Effective December 27, 2018 -> removes the "first-offense" requirement and allows persons to erase multiple convictions arising out of the same sentencing hearing if they are "closely connected." Also allows offenders to expunge first-offense simple drug possession and possession of drugs with intent to distribute crimes. From a practical standpoint, job applicants with crimes expunged from their record under the new law will most likely not disclose that fact on a job application or during the hiring process. Employers also will be unable to discover the offenses on a commercial criminal background check. NOTE: the new law provides immunity to employers with respect to any administrative claim or lawsuit related to an employee's expunged conviction. These often arise in negligent hiring, retention, and supervision claims against employers. Increase in Posting Violations Posters Required Under Federal Law Federal Law Requires Most Employers to Post the Following 6 Notices: U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) Poster Employee Polygraph Protection Act (EPPA) Poster · Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA) Poster • Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA) Poster · Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSHA) Poster Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act (USERRA) Poster

FLSA, OSHA, and EPPA Violation Penalties • Fair Labor Standards Act: • Employers who repeatedly or willfully violate minimum wage or overtime requirements will now receive a maximum monetary penalty of $2,014, per employee. • Occupational Safety and Health Act • The maximum penalty for willful or repeated violations of OSHA increased to $9,472. • Employee Polygraph Protection Act • The penalty for violations of EPPA increased to $21,039.

North Carolina Employee Fair Classification Act Update

North Carolina Employee Fair Classification Act • Issue: Misclassification of workers as independent contractors. • NC law that allows employees to easily report and the government to easily prosecute any employer that misclassifies an individual as an independent contractor. • Became effective on December 31, 2017.

North Carolina Employee Fair Classification Act What is the applicable legal standard or "test"? • The NC statute does not change the definition of "employee" or "independent contractor." • The analysis is always case-by-case, turning on "control" Is the worker truly controlling his/her own work or is the worker's service controlled and directed by the employer? At the end of the day, each law (whether it is wage & hour, workers' compensation, or tax law) has its own legal standard. North Carolina Employee Fair Classification Act What has been the outcome of this Act since it was implemented in December 2017? • For the period of July 1, 2017 – June 30, 2018: The NC Industrial Commission received 328 complaints and collected $611,742 A clear increase in the effectiveness of investigating and collecting monetary damages. New Intern Test

Interns In the Trump Era • In 2018, the DOL replaced its former six-part test to determine whether a worker is an "unpaid intern," and replaced it with the primary beneficiary test. The primary beneficiary test does not include a rigid set of requirements—rather, it has a non-exhaustive list of factors to determine who the primary beneficiary is of the internship. Primary Beneficiary Test Factors the extent to which the intern and the employer clearly understand that there is no expectation of compensation: the extent to which the internship provides training that would be similar to that which would be given in an educational environment, including the clinical and other hands-on training provided by an educational institution; the extent to which the internship is tied to the intern's formal education program by integrated coursework or the receipt of academic credit; the extent to which the internship accommodates the intern's academic commitments by corresponding to the academic calendar; Primary Beneficiary Test Factors the extent to which the internship's duration is limited to the period in which the internship provides the intern with beneficial learning; the extent to which the intern's work complements, rather than displaces, the work of paid employees while providing significant educational benefits to the intern; and the extent to which the intern and the employer understand that the internship is conducted without entitlement to a paid job at the conclusion of the internship.
